A letter to a friend. Giving a concise, but just, representation of the hardships and sufferings the town of Boston is exposed to, and must undergo in consequence of the late act of the British Parliament: which, by shutting up its port, has put a fatal bar in the way of that commercial business on which it depended for its support. Shewing at the same time, wherein this edict, however unintended, is powerfully adapted to promote the interest of all the American colonies, and even of Boston itself in the end. By T. W., a Bostonian.	ARC 308 B367	Date: 1774 "With: A sermon delivered at Wrentham, Oct. 26, 1773.../ by Joseph Bean."

The archeology of a 1776 cantonment of New Hampshire regiments	GENERAL NC 913.742 H855	"Archeological surveys and excavations at Mount Independence in Orwell, Vermont during 1989 and 1990, investigated the remains of a 1776 Continental Army cantonment. Ruins of soldiers' huts with an abundance of associated artifacts allowed preliminary interpretations of the cantonment organization, the architecture of its shelters, and its foodways. The archeological findings are compared with contemporary documents such as daily orders and diaries. A review of the historical events which led to the cantonment of New Hampshire troops at Mount Independence is also included." --Abstract.
